
Historical News

Historical News is published twice a year by Whitcombe & Tombs Ltd in association with the Department of History, University of Canterbury.

Historical News publishes articles concerned with all aspects of history, including New Zealand history. Many are 'revision articles,' especially relevant to the various syllabuses prescribed for use in New Zealand secondary schools.

Historical News, No. 15, August, 1967, contains the following articles, together with book reviews:

Bonapartism and Mid-Nineteenth-century France.

J. H. JENSEN

Yorkshire and English National Politics, 1783 - 1784. N. C. Phillips.

A critical scrutiny of the events leading up to the election of 1784. 'N. C. Phillips, in this well-reasoned essay, discusses briefly the work of his predecessors in the field and then offers his own interpretation. Basing his conclusions on much hitherto unused material, the author analyzes the election in a pivotal county Yorkshire.'

— Mildred Campbell, American Historical Review, Jan. 1963.

An exposition of the writings of six Christian apologists — Tertullian, Eusebius, Lactantius, Augustine, Orosius and Salvian. THE CRITICAL HISTORIAN

G. KITSON CLARK $3.70 (N.Z.)

This book is the offering of a great scholar, reflecting magisterially on the skills of his craft. The balance and lucidity of its statements should make it compulsory reading for those to whom it is dedicated: "all those who, whether in school, or college, have the great responsibility of teaching history."

Kitson Clark is well-known to us from his visit here a few years ago as well as from his writing, and New Zealand historians will be particularly interested in his latest book.
